		2 nd wife Anne Stith
John Bolling (1676-1729)	M	Mary Kennon (1679-)
John Bolling, Jr (1700-1757)	M	Elizabeth Blair (1708-1775)
William Bolling (1731-1776)	M	Amelia Randolph (1739-1780)
Samuel E. Bolling (1753-1808)	M	Abigail Choice (1752-1832)
Robert Bolling (1777-1867)	M	Rachel Tarrant (1778-1863)
Jane Caroline Bolling (1810-1857)	M	William Allison (1808-1888)

Robert Bolling had two sets of children, hence the "Red" Bollings. from the Indian side and the "White" Bollings, from the Stith side, who were probably English. This has caused some confusion over the years, as people do not listen to the lineage, as they should, carefully.

Robert Bolling descends from John Bolling and his wife, Mary Carie lived in London. Robert was born 26 Day of December 1646, and was baptized in the Parish church of Allhallows. John, his father had been the Eldest son of Robert Bolling, and other sons of Robert and Anne, his wife are Edward, Thomas, Anne and Beatrix, who married later Thomas Creswell. The will was proven at Canterbury on the 13th of November, 1639. This Robert is buried at Parish Church of Allhallows, Tower Street, Barking-by-the-Tower, London, England. Anne, the wife of Robert and mother to John, was Anne Clarke, daughter of Thomas Clarke, also of London.

Robert #2 emigrated to America and arrived 2nd of October 1660. In 1675, he married Jane Rolfe, daughter of Thomas Rolfe, and she was grand-daughter of Pocahontas.

POCAHONTAS and JOHN ROLFE

1595-1617

1585-1622

M. 4-5-1614

It is interesting for our family to know that when we trace our ancestry back to the thirteenth century, we have recorded historical facts to support our claim, in the form of letters, wills, deeds and history books. Such is true of Pocahontas, since her connection and concern for the Jamestown settlers in 1607, is recorded in letters from Captain John Smith, John Rolfe, and several of the early governors of the Virginia Colony and later historians.

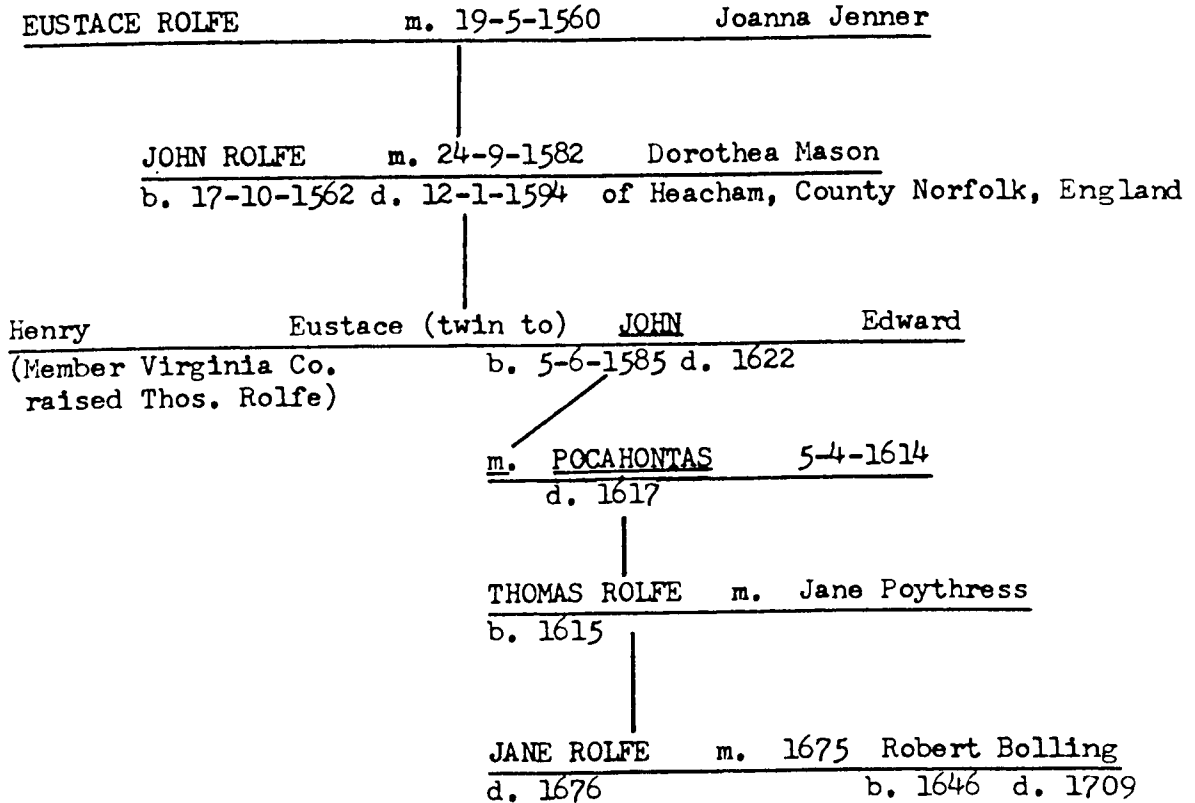

The articles and documents I have found tell the story but I will give you a résumé of pertinent facts for each generation. Truly, Pocahontas was the reason the Jamestown Colony survived. She was the favorite daughter of Powhatan, who ruled the tribes of tidewater Virginia. She was intelligent, compassionate and apparently able to convince her father and the Indian nation that the new settlers should stay. She was educated and converted to Christianity by the Rev. Whittaker, a Colonist. Her marriage to John Rolfe in 1614 was a great alliance politically, and it was too bad her life was so short, for that period was known as the Peace of Pocahontas. With a retinue of Indian relatives she accompanied her husband and young son to England in 1616, where she was presented at the Court of King James I and Queen Anne. She was well received, entertained and admired, and handled herself with the dignity of a Princess. Her untimely death in England, 1617 at age twenty-two, left her husband, John Rolfe, with the sad decision of leaving young Thomas behind to be raised by his brother, Henry Rolfe.

We can take pride in our 9th great grandfather. Besides John Rolfe's contribution to the tobacco industry and making the first shipment of tobacco from Virginia to England, (King James I remark in 1617 about the tobacco shipment was "that filthy weed!") he was appointed in 1617 as the first Secretary and Recorder General of the Colony and in 1619, he was made a member of the Council. Because of John Rolfe's "service to the King", I decided to prove our ancestry back to him for my National Society of Colonial Dames of America membership, though several succeeding Bollings qualified as well.

John Rolfe became a successful planter, and land owner. He later remarried, bought additional land and though he died in 1622, the year of the terrible massacre of the Colonists by the Indians (Powhatan having died in 1618, a year after Pocahontas) his will dated 10 March 1622, states "being sicke in body", he may have died of natural causes rather than by his wife's people in the Massacre of 22 March 1622.

In his will John Rolfe bequeathed to his "small sonne Thomas (about 7) a four hundred acre tract of land on the south bank of the James, fifteen miles downstream from Jamestown."

ROLFE

CHIEF POWHATAN d. 1618
(ruler of the Indian nation of tidewater Virginia and father of Pocahontas)

THOMAS ROLFE AND JANE POYTHRESS
b. 1615

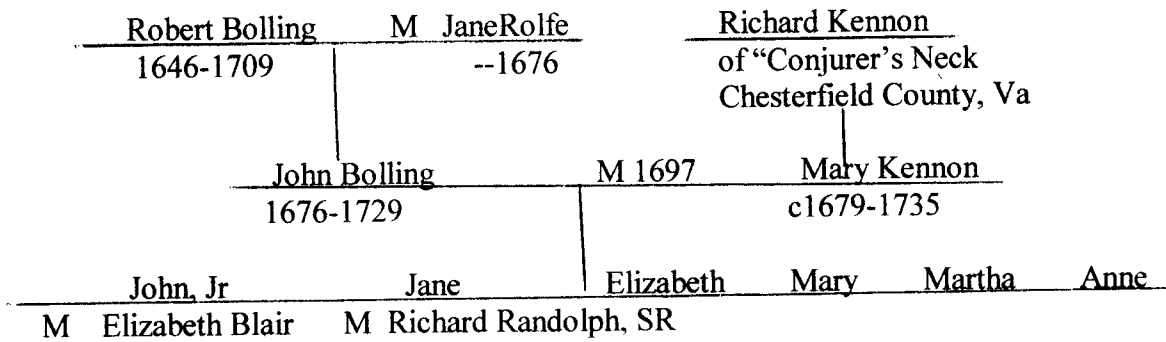

Pocahontas' and John Rolfe's son Thomas came back to Virginia about 1635. He was only seven when his father died so he continued to live with his uncle, Henry Rolfe and was educated in England. He was apparently anxious to seek out his Mother's people, but at that time it was against the law to "parley" with the Powhatans and all trade "with the Savages had been prohibited, as well Publique as private." Thomas petitioned the governor to let him visit his maternal aunt and great-uncle in 1641, according to old Virginia records. Chief Opechancanough alerted his people that the half-breed son of the Princess Pocahontas was making his way from Jamestown into their territory. They had waited a long time to see their relative.

Thomas took up the lands left him by his father and mother and married Jane Poythress. Little is known of her except that a family by that name is known to have resided near Charles City and a Francis Poythress is listed as a member of the House of Burgesses in 1644. Thomas was also elected to the House of Burgesses and according to biographer William Stith "a person of Fortune and Distinction in the country." He was also a lieutenant in the colonial militia and assigned guard duty at Fort James "in defense of the colonists against the Indians." He had to make a choice between the people of his father and his mother.

Thomas and Jane had one daughter, Jane Rolfe, who married Colonel Robert Bolling in 1675.

I have attached a copy of depositions proving the sale of some of Thomas' land which he inherited from his mother, Smith's Fort Plantation, to a Thomas Warren, which is interesting to read. This land was a wedding gift to Pocahontas and John Rolfe from Powhatan. A friend of mine who is a descendent of Thomas Warren gave me a copy of these depositions from the Surry County, Virginia, court records. The Rolfe-Warren house, built by Thomas Warren is the oldest brick house in Virginia and is a ferry boat ride across the James River from Jamestown.

BOLLING - KENNON

JOHN BOLLING and MARY KENNON
1676 - 1729 1679 - 1735 m. 1697

John Bolling inherited vast lands from his mother Jane Rolfe Bolling. He lived at "Cobbs" his plantation on the Appomattox River near Petersburg, which was described by his good friend William Byrd of Westover Plantation as "one of the best houses in the country." According to his grandson Robert's account in his Bolling Memoires, John "devoted himself to commerce, had an immense trade with the Indians, and enjoyed all the pleasures of Society; for which never was there a person better formed." He was elected to the House of Burgesses from 1710 through 1726.

John and Mary Kennon Bolling had one son, John Bolling, Jr., and five daughters. One of these daughters, Jane, married Richard Randolph. Their granddaughter, Amelia Randolph later married William Bolling, a son of John Bolling, Jr.

An article about John Bolling's home, "Cobbs" and a sketch of the home is included. At one time "Cobbs" was used as a school for the deaf, the first in America. Thomas Bolling, a brother of our William, later inherited "Cobbs" and three of his four children were deaf mutes, as well as two of his grandchildren.

Unfortunately, "Cobbs" did not survive the War between the States - it was burned by General Butler's troops.

JOHN B. CLARDY, SR. CEMETERY

LOCATION: 2.6 Miles South of I-85 & 9 feet off River Road toward Piedmont
Inside 2-foot high stonewall on River Road at Baylor Road, Anderson County, S. C.

The John Bradford Clardy Cemetery has one row of five or more graves mostly marked with fieldstones inside the stone wall. It's 33 feet long by 10 feet wide and has a stone Wall divider about 10 feet from one end. It was heavily grown over with half-inch diameter trees and cemetery grass (Periwinkle) to the point where you could not see the Graves. There is also boxwood shrubs planted inside the Wall and a Crepe Myrtle tree.

J. C. born 1768 dec 24 Dec 1855 (John Bradford Clardy, Sr was born to John and Mary Elizabeth Bullington Clardy in Halifax County, Va.) John, the father, was the son Of Benjamin and Millicent (Norman?) Clardy, who were in Nottoway County, Va, with wills naming their children . John had a brother, Benjamin, who married Agnes Booth, daughter of John Booth and Mary Smith Booth. Benjamin and Agnes Booth Clardy came to this area , with their daughters, Mary N. Clardy, who had married her cousin, John Bradford Clardy. (Some in the family want to call John's second name, Benjamin, but this is incorrect. They would not have named two (2) consecutive sons Benjamin.) The second daughter to arrive with Ben and Agnes was Nancy Clardy, who was married To David Spearman. The third daughter was Sarah (Sally) Clardy, who married James (Jimmy) Fleming. Also, a brother of Agnes, John Booth, came with them but stayed in the area around Union/Spartanburg. Records back this information up.
MNC born 1772 dec 29 Sep 1857 is Mary N. (Polly) Clardy, wife of John B. Clardy, Sr.

Norman Clardy and family are also buried in this cemetery..He was a son of John B. Sr.. John B. Clardy, Sr is my 3rd gr-grandfather and grandfather to many in this area. My 2nd gr-grandfather was John Bradford Clardy, Jr who married Rebecca Elizabeth Norris. Their daughter, Harriett Margarette Clardy married William Kennemore. Their Son , Edward Bradford Kennemore was my grandfather. He was named for John Bradford Clardy and John Edward Norris, his grandfathers on both sides.

Settlement of Pendleton District, South Carolina, 1777-1800
- by Frederick Van Clayton -

453	Big Eastatoe	Jerimiah Fields	500	1799	v37, p401

The problem of ascertaining the origin of the settlers of Pendleton District is a difficult one. However, it appears that there were two main sources of immigration. One of these was removals within the State from the south toward the north. The other was an influx from Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina, and Georgia. As proof of the above, in 1790, the following people were found living in various parts of South Carolina, as indicated in the table. They later removed to Pendleton District . . . The same records show that seventeen of the land holders of the district came from North Carolina, and [included the following]:

CONFEDERATE

Soldiers

of Pickens District, SC

William N. Bolding

A son of Jonathan Lee Bolding (1806-1879) and Rebecca (Powell) Bolding (1812-1883) of the eastern division of Pickens District, S. C. William Nelson "Nelse" Bolding was born 25 Aug 1842. In 1861, when he was nineteen years of age, Nelse enlisted, with his brother, Green B. Bolding (1836-1862), in Company G, 12th South Carolina Infantry, C.S.A. The company was commanded first by Capt. A. D. Gaillard and later by Capt. John W. Moody. This Confederate soldier might have also served in another military unit during the U. S. Civil War.

After the North-South conflict, Nelse Bolding once stated that he was never wounded and that the closest he ever came to being injured was when he was resting against a tree in Virginia and a bullet parted his hair but did no damage to his scalp. When the war ended, Nelse walked all the way back to his home in Pickens District, South Carolina.

Nelse Bolding married Rebecca Melinda Porter (18 Dec 1847 - 19 Jun 1933), who was a daughter of Samuel Gibson Porter and Patsy (Prince) Porter. The couple had the following seven children: Elford Meares Bolding (1872-1960), who married Mary Alice Tompkins (1877-1944); James Benjamin Bolding (1876-1965), who married Eula Dalton (1876-1936); William Monroe Bolding (1883-1955); who married Josie A. Porter (1882-1974); Samuel Jonathan Bolding (1887-1960), who married Essie Lumpkin (1890-1985); Seagle Norman Bolding (1890-1960), who married Essie Parrott (1893-1970); John Erby Bolding (1894-1955), who married Lillie Lewis (1898-1955); and Thomas Nelson Bolding (1896-1984), who married Vessie Lewis (b. 1896).

Co. G, 12th S.C. Infantry

In 1902, Nelse Bolding was a candidate for public office in Pickens County, S. C. The following year he attended the first annual Confederate Veterans Day celebration in the county seat. He was also in attendance at the 1915 celebration at the same place.

On 2 Apr 1919, he applied for a Civil War pension. At that time, he resided on Rural Free Delivery Route No. 2, Pickens, S. C. His pension application was witnessed by B. J. Johnston, a Confederate veteran who served in Co. I, 62nd North Carolina Infantry, and by James A. Griffin, another veteran who served in Co. B, 37th Battalion Virginia Cavalry.

This Confederate veteran died September 17, 1926. He was buried in the cemetery at Mountain View Church in Pickens County, S. C. His wife was also buried there.

Thomas S. McLees (1841-1918) served in Co. I, 1st S. C. Infantry (Butler's Regt.), C.S.A. In 1902 he was a recipient of a Civil War pension, and he resided in Oconee County, S. C. This Confederate veteran died 21 Apr 1918 and was buried in East View Cemetery in Westminster (Oconee c.), S. C.

W. T. McLees (1838-1919) served in Co. D, 1st South Carolina Rifles (Orr's Regt.). He married Isabella Wilson (1838-1917). He attended the 1916 reunion of Orr's Rifles at Seneca, S. C. This veteran of the Civil War died 8 May 1919 and was buried at Friendship Methodist Church in Oconee County, S. C.

James N. McMahan (b. 1845) was a son of Alexander McMahan and Jane (Kennemore) McMahan. His paternal grandfather was Archibald McMahan, a Revolutionary War soldier whose wife was Annie (Payne) McMahan of the Georges Creek community of the eastern division of Pickens District, S. C. (now Pickens Co.). This Confederate soldier served as a private in Co. E, 2nd South Carolina Rifles (Moore's Regt.).

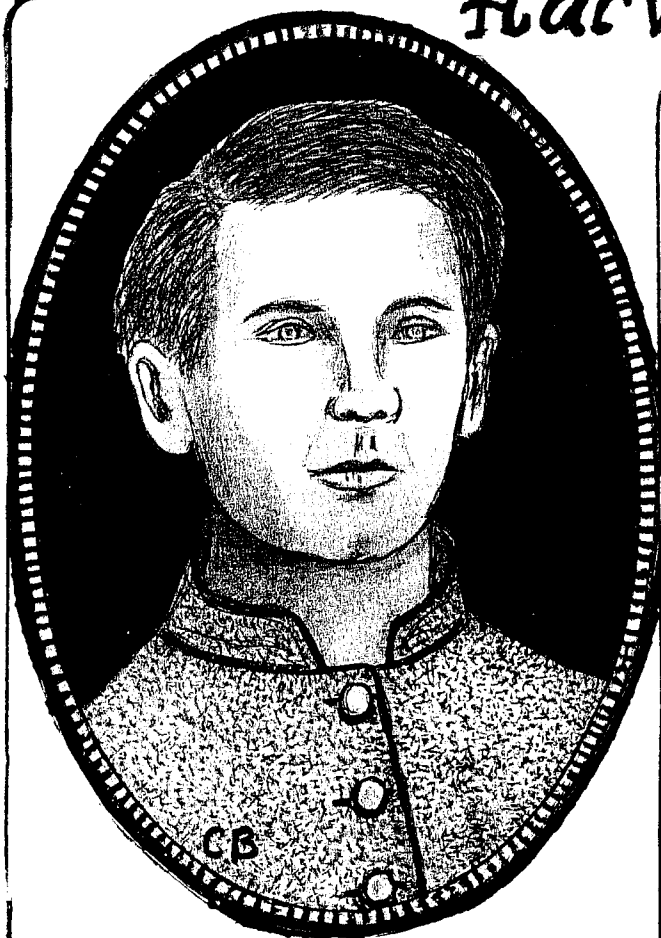

McMurry (or McMurray) (given name unknown). In 1888, a widow, C. E. McMurry, was a recipient of a Civil War widow's pension in Pickens Co., South Carolina. (No additional information available)

E. L. McNabb was a Confederate soldier whose widow, Laura McNabb of Easley township in Pickens County, S. C., was a recipient of a Civil War pension during the 1930s.

J. P. McNeely (1841-1911) served in Co. G, 22nd South Carolina Infantry. He was one of the twenty Civil War veterans who were honored 20 Jan 1907 at Clemson College where the 100th anniversary of Robert E. Lee's birthday was celebrated by the John C. Calhoun Chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy. Mr. McNeely and the other veterans marched down the aisle of Clemson's Memorial Hall while the college band played "Dixie", the popular minstrel song of the late 1850s that became the unofficial anthem of the South and now serves as an emotional link with the so-called Lost Cause.

Ephraim Massingill (b. ca 1821) enlisted at Pickens Court House on the Keowee River in Pickens District, S. C., on 14 Apr 1861 and served in Co. H, 4th South Carolina Infantry (Volunteers), C.S.A. He was marked present for duty on his unit's roll of 31 Dec 1861. This Confederate soldier also served to the rank of sergeant in Co. D, 2nd S. C. Rifles. One man with the name Ephraam Massingill served as a corporal in Co. B, 1st S. C. State Troops between Aug 1863 and Feb 1864. (Same man?) This soldier was a brother of Joseph, CSA.

Harvey Alonzo Richey

Harvey Alonzo Richey
1848-1916
1st S.C. State Troops

A son of James Nathaniel Richey (1815-1894) and Lucinda (Hunt) Richey (1814-1888), Harvey Alonzo Richey was born in the Honea Path community of Anderson County, S. C. In 1864, he was enrolled in the 1st S. C. State Troops under Capt. John Bramlett. Thus this Confederate soldier was among the youngest men to have served from the Upstate in the U. S. Civil War, having been born in 1848.

Harvey Alonzo Richey's father also served in the Confederate States Army, having been a private in Co. A, 1st S. C. State Troops after his enlistment at Anderson, S. C., on 1 Aug 1863. But the senior Richey was discharged from the C.S.A. at Charleston, S. C., on a surgeon's certificate on 24 Sept 1863. Another son of the senior Richey also served in the C.S.A. as a member of Co. D, 4th S. C. Infantry and Co. F, 1st S. C. Artillery. He was James Robert Richey (2 Jan 1844 - 4 Aug 1862). That son died during the war at Marine Hospital in Charleston, S. C.

An older half-brother of Harvey Alonzo Richey also served in the C.S.A. He was George Washington "Wash" Richey (1840-1900), who was a private in Co. I, 4th S. C. Infantry (Volunteers) and in Co. F, 1st S. C. Artillery. The half-brother was the only child born in his father's first marriage to Emily Kay (1821-1841). The father, James Nathaniel Richey, was married four times: first to Emily Kay, then to Lucinda Hunt, then to widow Mrs. Gambrell and finally to a Miss Tompkins. The parents of James Nathaniel Richey were both natives of Ireland.

The company of S. C. State Troops in which Harvey Alonzo Richey served during the Civil War was pardoned by Federals at Greensboro, North Carolina, in the spring of 1865. Then, the young soldier returned to his home in Upstate South Carolina and began to work on his father's large farm situated in the Brushy Creek community of northern Anderson County and near the Pickens County line.

Because this Confederate veteran had attended at least one term of enrollment at Thalian Academy in the Slabtown community of Anderson County, he was deemed qualified to serve as a school teacher. Thus in 1871 and 1872 he taught school at Fairview in the northern part of the county. Then, in 1873, Richey moved to Gainesville, Georgia, where he worked as a salesman at King and Brothers Store. But two years later, he returned to South Carolina and settled in the newly established community which sprang up at Easley Station on the Charlotte-Atlanta Airline Railroad (now the town of Easley).

Richey's first work in Easley was at Russell, Martin and Company Store, an establishment that sold both groceries and dry goods. Thomas Wallace Russell, the store's co-owner, was a Confederate veteran who had served in Co.

D, Hampton Legion during the U. S. Civil War. Later, Richey established Easley's first livery stable where horses, buggies and other light vehicles were kept for hire. It was located on Sardine Street, which was eventually re-named Pendleton Street. Then, in 1876, Richey and Andrew G. Wyatt (1848-1908), another Confederate veteran who had also served in the 1st S. C. State Troops, founded a business partnership and opened a combination livery business and mercantile store in Easley.

Richey ran an advertisement in The Pickens Sentinel in which he offered to provide horse-drawn transportation between Easley and Pickens, a distance of between seven and eight miles. He further announced in the newspaper that his service was also available from Easley to Table Rock and other local destinations. According to the paid advertisement, the horse-drawn transportation was available at all hours of the day and night---but not on Sundays.

In 1877, Richey was elected a warden (town councilman) of Easley. And in 1884, he was elected sheriff of Pickens County. Then, the Richey family moved to the town of Pickens and occupied a house owned by T. E. Cox. The Richey family resided at the county seat for the remainder of the patriarch's life.

Harvey Alonzo and Nancy Richey were married on 27 Jun 1869. The wife's maiden name was Nancy I. Williams, and she was born 14 Oct 1844. She was a native of Hall County, GA. The Richeys had two sons and seven daughters: Flora Richey, who married J. Willie Lathem on 22 Jul 1891 at Pickens Presbyterian Church; Cora Richey; Dora Richey (1870-1935), who married James L. Thompson (1866-1933), a son of James C. Thompson (1831-1886); Homer A. Richey (1874-1903); Nora Richey (1879-1924), who married Benjamin A. Laboon (1877-1941) of Anderson County, S. C.; Olga Richey; Sadie Richey; James Richey; and Ola Richey (b. 1886).

In 1888, Richey was re-elected sheriff of Pickens County. About two years later, he was the officiating sheriff at Pickens County's first legal hanging. A condemned man, Bill Miles, was executed in public for the murder of Jake Griffin. Both men were of African descent.

According to a news note in an 1889 issue of The Pickens Sentinel, Flora Richey, daughter of Sheriff Richey, was a student at Winthrop training school.

In 1891, H. A. Richey and Co. purchased the Griffin Mill tract on Town Creek. Included in the purchase was the grist mill's machinery. The cost of the purchase was $1,005.00. Also that same year, Richey purchased 74 acres of land in Pickens County for $501.00. Additionally, he bought the Robert Ellis farm on Twelve Mile River and sold a farm on the west side of the river to J. B. Blackmon of Anderson, S. C., both in 1891.

Richey joined the Pickens Confederate Veterans Camp in September 1893. Three years later, his name appeared on a list of supporters of a temperance meeting in the town of Pickens. During the 1890s, temperance reformers sought to reduce Americans' alcoholic intake or, by means of persuasion, to convince drinkers to give up alcohol entirely.

In 1897, Richey purchased a store in Pickens from Sutherland and Griffin.

Harvey Alonzo Richey died 19 May 1916. His body was buried in Sunrise Cemetery, situated on East Cedar Rock Street in Pickens, S. C. Before his death, Richey received a Civil War pension for his service in the S. C. State Troops. In the early 1920s, his wife was also a recipient of a widow's pension.

Samuel Earle announces "finding himself very much upon the decline, in order to diminish so far as is practical his trouble in future, offer for sale the following property:

Land on Conross where Abner Crosby formerly lived, 304 acres by actual survey; 80 in cultivation, strong useful buildings. If the purchaser wishes on the first day of January, when possession may be had, he can have 80 barrels of corn on the place.

- 100 acres adjoining above, whereon William Doyle lives; comfortable dwelling house and other buildings.
- 640 acres about 3 miles from the above places on the Colonel's Fork of Conross, wood land, among the first surveys made in the Forks; small quantity of creek bottom, best range for livestock in district.
- 780 acres on Beaver Dam about 3 miles above Myers' Mill; 30 acres cleared; few good cabins, peach orchard, few apple trees. Improvements all made during last seven years.
- 300 acres in this district on Saluda, directly opposite where James Earle lives; 50 acres in cultivation and in good repair. Strong log dwelling house (24 x 18) with a good stone chimney, a new shingle roof and plank floors, a good log kitchen, corn crib and stable; and it is believed contains more good upland and bottom to clear than on any other settled tract of the same size in the district. If the purchaser wishes on the first day of January, when possession may be had, he can have the present crop, a small stock of cattle and hogs.

- For these lands, the purchaser can have what indulgence he pleases, by paying interest from the time he takes possession.
- In the disposition to be made of this property, the subscriber has not profit, but ease, in view; wishing a little respite after fifty years of unremitted attention to a complicated concern: and the male part of his family that are grown being provided for and doing for themselves, he can expect very little assistance from them; he will therefore make the whole, or any part thereof, an advantageous contract to any industrious sober man who understands the farming business. To prevent any diminution in the value of the property, if the lands are not sold by Christmas, he will give good bargains to persons disposed to lease or crop for a term of years.

August 8, 1827

On Monday night last about 11 or 12 o'clock, a gentleman of the village on entering his room at a private boarding house in this place, found a black fellow very deliberately packing up all the clothing he could come at, and apparently on the eve of decamping. On being interrogated, he gave confused and unsatisfactory answers, and after a struggle of considerable violence, he was secured, the officers of justice were roused, and he was committed to jail. It was ascertained that he had visited some other rooms in the house and from one of them had taken a pocket book, and some other articles belonging to a young gentleman who was sleeping too soundly to be awakened by his entrance. On being secured, he said he had a horse, tied out, which was found by his directions, and which he now acknowledges was stolen. He has given several different accounts of himself, but from the last it appears that he is a notorious scoundrel owned a few years since by a gentleman in this neighborhood, and sold for his faults. He says that he has several times changed owners since that time, and now belongs to a gentleman of Chester district.

Dr. William Brazier has disposed of his interest in the Edgefield Hive and the paper is again under the direction of Abner Landrum, the original editor.
