The Pendleton Messenger Published by Frederick W. Symmes Pendleton, SC

March 10, 1833

- p. 1. Speech of John C. Calhoun in Senate on Collection of Duties on Imports
- p. 2. Speech of Mr. J.L. Wilson on motion to strike out the preamble of the Ordinance repeating the Ordinance of Nullification.
- p. 3. The mail stage was detained, presumably by high water.

Among the recent deaths in England is that of General Tarleton, so notorious during our revolution war for his partisan feats and ferocious mode of warfare in the Carolinians. He was a favorite officer and ultimate friend of Lord Cornwallis. (Copied from Charleston Evening Post)

Note from a member Tim Sloan

My great-great grandfather General Paul Quattlebaum of Lexington SC was one of the signers of the Secession Ordinance. He was a farmer and gun manufacturer in Lexington County South Carolina. He was the owner of more than 50 slaves in 1860. He furnished three sons and a son-in-law to the Confederate service; one of them was a West Point graduate. His youngest son Theodore Adolphus Quattlebaum was on Gun Number One that fired on the Star of West in Charleston Harbor in December 1860 as a Citadel student. This young lieutenant lost his life at the battle of Averasborough NC in April 1865 just as the war ended. General Sherman sent a special envoy to burn the home of General Quattlebaum just before the burning of Columbia. General Quattlebaum helped defend Columbia. The war paid its toll on the General losing his young son and the majority of his real and personal property.

Another great-great grandfather who signed the Secession Ordinance was Capt. John Maxwell of Pickens County in the upcountry. As an old man he volunteered for the Confederate service in Charleston after the convention. He, also, was a planter owning over fifty slaves.

The first threat of secession was by the northeastern states during the War of 1812 when they were called on to furnish troops and supplies for the War efforts.

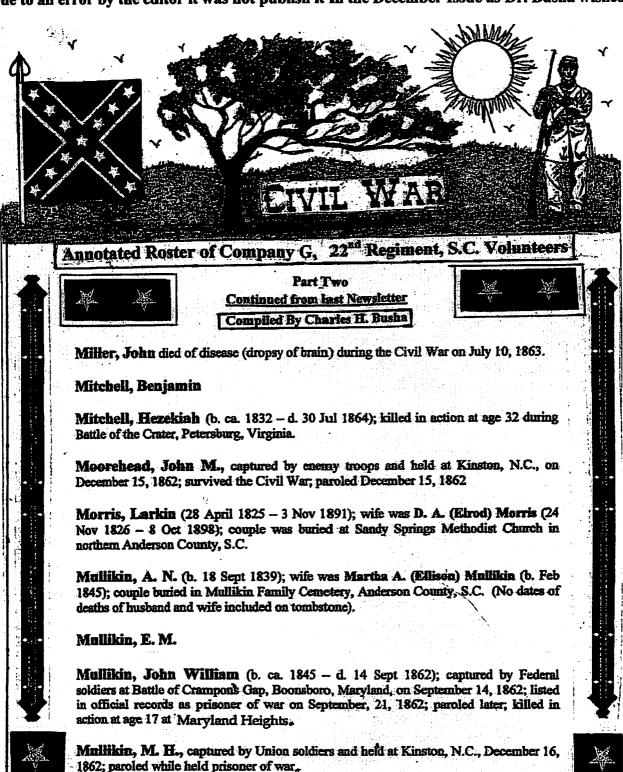

All four of my great-grandfathers fought in the Confederate service. One was Dr. Paul Hamilton Earle Sloan who served as Secretary-Treasurer of Clemson Agricultural College (Clemson University) from its beginning until his death in 1915.

Rev. Carl Garrison writes there are many mistakes in the list of Pickens Cemetery published in the last newsletter. He plans to send another list with all the corrections. That list was taken from a website and not checked by the editor. We look forward to his corrections.

He also sent a copy of the family Bible, published in 1881. Most of information is written by Robert Welborn Pickens. Most of the dates after 1945 are written by his youngest daughter, Carl Garrison's paternal Grandma. Carl R. HENDRIX v. HOLDEN.

Before Gary, J., December, 1899, Oconee. Reversed.

Action for partition by N. A. Hendrix and the other children of Naomi Holden, against William Holden, administrator, John D. Verner and others in possession of lands of which she died seized and possessed, under sale by sheriff under execution, and parties holding liens on interest of Wm. Holden in said lands. So much of the case as refers to the Oconee County lands was referred to master of that county to decide all issues. Upon exceptions to his report, the Circuit Judge made the following decree:

"On the 30th day of June, 1891, Naomi Holden departed this life intestate in Oconee County. At the time of her death she was seized in fee simple and in the exclusive possession of the several tracts of land described in the complaint, which are the subject matter of this action. The said Naomi Holden left surviving her as next of kin and heirs at law, her husband, the defendant, William Holden, and her children, the plaintiffs above named. After the death of the said Naomi Holden, her said husband and children continued in the uninterrupted possession, use and enjoyment of the real estate of the said Naomi Holden up to the time the same was sold by the sheriff, under an execution issued on the 15th day of October, 1892, to enforce the payment of a judgment in favor of John D. Verner, as plaintiff, against the said William Holden, as administrator of the said Naomi Holden and in his own right. This judgment of John D. Verner was recovered under the following circumstances: On the 12th day of October, 1891, said William Holden was appointed administrator of the personal estate of Naomi Holden by Richard Lewis, Esq., judge of probate for Oconee County. I think it important that the petition and order of appointment should be set out at length. They are as follows: 'The State of South Carolina, County of Oconee. To Richard Lewis, judge of probate of the County and State aforesaid: The undersigned most respectfully petitions for letters of administration upon the estate of Naomi Holden, deceased. (Signed) Wm. Holden. On hearing the above petition, it is ordered, that William Holden be appointed administrator of the personal estate of Naomi Holden, deceased, upon his giving good and sufficient bond. Given under my hand and seal this 12th day of October, 1891. (Official seal.) (Signed) Richard Lewis, Judge of Probate. On the same day the said William Holden entered into bond in the sum of $800, with W. F. Parker and R. E. Mason as sureties, conditioned for the faithful administration of the goods, chattels and credits of the said Naomi Holden.

"On the 8th day of September, 1892, John D. Verner commenced an action in the Court of Common Pleas for Oconee County against William Holden, as administrator of the estate of Naomi Holden, and in his own right, on two notes alleged to have been executed by Naomi Holden to the said William Holden, the one dated 1st November, 1888, for $5,400, and the other for $1,500, both due one day after date, and endorsed by the said William Holden. On October 6th, 1892, judgment was recovered by default in favor of the said John D. Verner and against the said William Holden, both as administrator of the estate of Naomi Holden and in his own right, for the sum of $8,919.38, William Holden having accepted service of summons in this action, both in his representative and individual capacity, and having failed to file any answer. On the 15th day of October, 1892, execution was issued to enforce said judgment, and under and by virtue of the same the sheriff sold the various 32-58 Circuit Decree. [58 S. C. lots of land herein sought to be partitioned. The title deeds of the various purchasers are in evidence before me, from which it appears that on the 7th May, 1894, he sold to Thos. N. Hall and L. G. Gaston a lot known as the 'Cox' lot, in Westminster, containing one acre, and also the John W. Mason lot, in said town, containing one and one-half acres. On 5th February, 1894, the said sheriff sold to the defendant, Josiah Holden, 250 acres in Oconee County, fully described in his answer in this cause. On 3 February, 1896, he sold to the defendant, William M. Gossett, Lot No. 44, in the town of Westminster, and on the same day he sold to the defendant, John D. Verner, a tract of land on Choestoe Creek, containing eight and one-tenth acres, also the one-sixth interest in 830 acres, known as the 'King' lands, also one other lot in said town, fronting Gum Street. Also a part of lot No. 5, containing 12 36-100 acres in said town (Doyle survey); also lot No. 38; also a lot in said town, known as the 'Fannie Nelson' lot, containing one-half acre; also the William Nix place, containing 950 acres, on both sides of Boon's Creek; also two lots in the town of Walhalla, known as lot 58, and containing one acre. It is admitted by the parties to this action that Naomi Holden is the common source, and that she died intestate, and was the owner in fee simple of all the lands which have been sold by the sheriff of Oconee County, and that she was the owner of two tracts of land in Oconee County, which have not been sold—one tract of seventy-five acres on Keowee River and also a lot in Danville, known as lot No. 2—and that she was also the owner in fee simple of three small tracts of land in the county of Pickens, one containing 100 acres, one 60 acres, and the other containing 625 acres.

"As already intimated, this suit is brought by the plaintiffs as heirs at law (being the children) of Naomi Holden, for the purpose of recovering the several tracts of land which were sold off, under the judgment and execution in favor of John D. Verner against the said William Holden, in his own right and as the administrator of Naomi Holden, deceased, and to partition the same amongst the said heirs at law of the said Naomi Holden, and for the purpose also of partitioning the several tracts of land that have not heretofore been sold.

"Now, the only question here is one of fact. Were the heirs in exclusive possession at the time this judgment was recovered? What is exclusive possession? I take it that it is such a holding that if continued for the statutory period would ripen into a title by adverse possession, and it does seem to me that these plaintiffs have come within that rule. Their father has rented the same out to tenants, collected the same and expended them for the use of himself and children—the highest proof of exclusive possession. It nowhere appears that he transferred or changed his possession of an heir at law to that of an administrator. He made no returns as such. Having reached this conclusion, I am constrained to overrule the master in his finding of fact on this subject. I, therefore, hold that the titles under said judgment of John D. Verner are invalid as against the heirs at law of Naomi Holden, and that they are entitled to have the same partitioned. The judgment is assailed on several other grounds, but having arrived at a satisfactory conclusion, I think it unnecessary to pass on them.

"It is, therefore, ordered, that the exceptions of the plaintiffs and such of the defendants as have filed exceptions to the master's report be, and the same are hereby, confirmed in so far as they are consistent with the views announced in this decree, and that the report of the master is hereby reversed in so far as the findings of fact and conclusions of law are inconsistent with the conclusions announced in this decree. The defendants, John D. Verner, William M. Gossett, Josiah Holden, Thomas N. Hall and L. G. Gaston, gave due notice of intention to appeal from the judgment and decree of his Honor, Ernest Gary. The defendant, John D. Verner, excepts to the decree on the following grounds, to wit:

The opinion of the Court was delivered by Mr. Justice Pope. On the 30th day of June, 1891, Mrs. Naomi Holden departed this life intestate, survived by her husband, William Holden, and her children, the plaintiffs, who were all minors at that time; on the 12th day of October, A. D. 1891, the defendant, William Holden, procured letters of administration upon her estate to be granted to him by the probate court of Oconee County, S. C, and her personal estate was very inconsiderable, but her real estate was considerable, lying partly in Oconee County and partly in Pickens County, although at her death she was residing with her said husband and with her said children in the little town of Westminster, in Oconee County. In 1888, the plaintiff, N. A. Holden, intermarried with — Hendrix, and never afterwards lived as one of the family. Mrs. Naomi Holden had given her note to the firm of Peden & Anderson, and also executed a mortgage of some of her lands to secure said note. Mrs. Holden had also, in the year 1888, executed her two sealed notes to her husband, William Holden, one for the sum of $5,500, due at one day after date, and dated the first ' day of November, 1888, with interest at seven per cent. per annum, and another of the same date, and also due at one day after date, at seven per cent., for the sum of $1,500, both aggregating the sum of $8,000.

On the 12th day of October, 1891, upon the application of William Holden, he was appointed the administrator of the personal estate of his wife, Mrs. Naomi Holden, deceased, gave bond as such administrator with sureties thereto, and had letters of administration duly issued to him by Mr. Lewis, the probate judge for Oconee County. William Holden transferred the two sealed notes, given to him by his said wife, Mrs. Naomi Holden, for value, unto John D. Verner. On the 8th day of September, 1892, John D. Verner brought his action in the Court of Common Pleas for Oconee County, S. C, against the said William Holden, as the administrator of the estate of Naomi Holden, deceased, and also in his own right, the service of summons in which was accepted in writing by William Holden, as said administrator and as an individual. William Holden, as administrator and in his own right, neither answered, demurred nor appeared in said action. On the 6th day of October, 1892, in regular term time, judgment was rendered in said action against William Holden, as administrator, &c., of Naomi Holden, deceased, for the sum of $8,919.38, and for a like amount against William Holden, as an individual. Executions were issued under said judgments. Levies were made upon certain pieces of real estate belonging to the estate of Mrs. Naomi Holden, deceased, in October, 1892, some in 1894, and some in 1896. Sales were made of certain lands of the intestate, and some of intestate's lands were purchased by John D. Verner, some were purchased by Josiah Holden, some were purchased by William M. Gossett, and some were purchased by Thomas N. Hall and L. G. Gaston. These purchasers entered upon the possession of their respective parcels of land immediately after the sheriff's sale thereof to them. respectively, under his deeds therefore, and the same parties are still in possession of said land so purchased. All the real estate in Pickens and Oconee Counties, not sold by the sheriff, still remains in the possession of William Holden and his children.

So on the 15th day of January, 1898, all the children of Mrs. Naomi Holden, deceased, as plaintiffs, began their action against William Holden, John D. Verner, J. P. Carey, W. M. Hagood, the Seneca Bank, W. P. Anderson. William M. Gossett, Josiah Holden, Thomas N. Hall and L. G. Gaston, as defendants, alleging the foregoing facts, but claiming that the sales made by the sheriff of Oconee County under the judgment and execution thereon of J. D. Verner against William Holden, as administrator, &c., of Naomi Holden, deceased, are null and void, and that such lands so attempted to be sold, together with all the other lands of the intestate's estate, were seized by them and William Holden in fee simple as the heirs at law of Mrs. Holden, deceased, and they demanded partition. It should have been stated that the defendants, J. P. Carey, W. M. Hagood, Bank of Seneca, are made parties because they hold claims by lien against the defendant, William Holden. The defendants, John D. Verner, W. P. Anderson, William M. Gossett, Josiah Holden, Thomas W. Hall and L. G. Gaston, deny that the lands purchased by them at the sheriff's sale under the judgment of John D. Verner, as plaintiff, against William Holden, as administrator of the personal estate of Naomi Holden, deceased, and against him as an individual, are now the property of the plaintiffs and the defendant, William Holden, as heirs at law of Naomi Holden, deceased, and that such lands remain for partition amongst such alleged heirs at law; but, on the contrary, the defendants allege that such lands are now owned and held by them as their own, respectively,' freed from any and all rights or claims thereto by such heirs at law, or any one or more of them. The action of the children of Mrs. Naomi Holden was begun in Pickens County, as some of them resided in that county (Pickens), and some of the lands were there located. But upon motion of the defendants, John D. Verner and the others in like plight with him, an order by consent was passed transferring the record to the county of Oconee, where their lands were located, for trial in the latter county. Soon after the actions were transferred to Oconee, an order was passed by consent that "trial by jury being waived," all the issues of law and fact were referred to J. W. Holleman, Esq., as master, with leave to report any special matter. It was admitted by all the counsel engaged that Naomi Holden, at the time of her death, was the owner in fee of the lands in dispute in the case, and that she is the common source of title from whom all the parties to this action are claiming title. On September 28th, 1899, "It was admitted by all the parties that the administrator of Naomi Holden is a proper party to this suit in his representative capacity, and it is agreed that the summons and complaint be so amended as to make him a party; that his answer be filed as of this date." Such answer of William Holden, as administrator of the personal estate of Naomi Holden, deceased, was accordingly made, wherein he admitted that he was such administrator. Testimony was taken before the master in regard to the judgment, execution and sales in the action of John D. Verner, as plaintiff, against William Holden, as administrator of the estate of Naomi Holden, deceased. "It was admitted and agreed by counsel for appellants and respondents that the levies on the several tracts and lots of land by the sheriff under said execution, the advertisement of the same for sale, and the deeds to defendants, John D. Verner, Josiah Holden, Thomas N. Hall, L. G. Gaston and W. M. Gossett, were regular in all respects, and no question is raised as to the regularity of any of said official acts of the sheriff in making levy, advertisement, sale or conveyance of the several lots and tracts of land to said defendants respectively."

After hearing all the testimony, the admissions and the pleadings, the master, J. W. Holleman, Esq., found amongst other things as follows: "That Naomi Holden died at the time and survived by her husband and her children as stated in the complaint, and that she was seized of the real estate as set out in the complaint. That William Holden, on 12th October, 1891, was duly appointed the administrator of the personal estate which belonged to her estate at her death, and letters of administration were duly issued to him. He thereupon entered the discharge of his duties as such administrator, and is still such administrator." That John D. Verner began his action against William Holden, as such administrator, and against such William Holden, as an individual, to obtain judgment against such William Holden, as said administrator and as an individual, for the $8,500 due by Naomi Holden in her lifetime to her husband, William Holden, which were duly transferred to the said John D. Verner by written assignment, which culminated in a judgment against said William Holden, as administrator as aforesaid and as an individual, for $8,919.38 and costs, on the 14th day of October, 1892. That the real estate as described in the answer of John D. Verner, W. M. Gossett, Thomas N. Hall, L. G. Gaston and Josiah Holden was sold by the sheriff under the execution issued under said judgment, which execution "commanded said sheriff to satisfy said judgment out of the personal property belonging to the estate of Naomi Holden, deceased, and if sufficient personal property cannot be found belonging to said estate, then out of the real property belonging to the estate of Naomi Holden." That the defendants above named purchased the same, took deeds therefor, went into immediate possession and remained in possession until now, said sales of land took place in the years 1894 and 1896. At the time of the death of Naomi Holden, all her children (the plaintiffs) were minors. That no partition was ever had of said lands amongst the said heirs at law, nor any fact tantamount thereto. That William Holden's possession of said lands was as administrator, and he paid debts of his intestate with rents. He finds also that the judgment of Peden & Anderson, now owned by Anderson, is in proper condition. As conclusions of law, he finds the judgment of John D. Verner is effective from all collateral attack; that the administrator had a right to waive his privilege of twelve months from suit. That the plaintiffs are bound by the judgment taken by J. D. Verner against their mother's administrator, he finds no irregularities in the judgment nor in the levy and sales thereunder. He holds the titles of the defendants as purchasers valid, and recommends that the complaint as to such defendants be dismissed.

Old Pendleton District Honors Genealogist

Ann Rogers of Walhalla was presented with a $500 grant from the Old Pendleton District Genealogy Society during their January meeting. The membership voted to give Rogers a monetary gift to show appreciation for her efforts in collecting and compiling family history data.

For more than 30 years, Rogers visited Oconee County cemeteries, documenting names, dates and other information from more than 35,000 tombstone inscriptions. She typed that information on index file cards, which are housed the South Carolina Room at the Oconee County Library in Walhalla.

Anne Sheriff (right) presenting $500 check to Ann Rogers

15 years ago, Paul Kankula, OPD member and web master of the Oconee County GenWeb Homestead, discovered the massive collection of index cards and decided the information needed to be electronically preserved.

For a year and a half, volunteer typist Jenny Boggs worked on retyping this index card collection, box by box. Kankula recruited five more volunteers: Tracy Bergeson, Rudy Northdorf, Vivian Parkway, Carolyn Ring and Rachel Smith, who helped to finish the project. The website dedicated to Ann Rogers and her many years of hard work is http://www.sciway3.net/scgenweb/oconee-county/inscriptions.html

Rogers, "the queen of compiling," has been working on another index card file, according to Kankula. She has decided document 100 years of news published in The Keowee Courier newspaper including birth, death and marriage announcements. The file already contains more than 40,000 index cards of personal news.

Big stars once performed at Littlejohn's in Clemson

James Brown, Duke Ellington, Little Richard, Ray Charles, Louis Armstrong, and Otis Redding are just a few of the performers who once visited the Upstate area on their road to fame, according to Vince Jackson, author of The Littlejohn's Grill Story: Blues, Jazz and Rock and Roll in Clemson, SC.

"This was a period when everyone that was anyone played in Clemson," said Jackson. He listed a roll call of blues and jazz greats as having played at Littlejohn's. It was also a time of segregation, and the white folks sat in the balcony, according to Jackson, guest speaker at the Old Pendleton District Genealogical Society's January meeting.

At the close of World War II, Horace Littlejohn, opened a restaurant that would become a thriving nightclub on Highway 93 in Clemson on the site of the current Littlejohn's Community Center. This historic hot spot where current day music legends once played "one-nighters" is only about one mile from where the group was meeting at the Central-Clemson Library.

Jackson said he wrote the book after becoming intrigued by all the famous singers and comedians that were said to have performed in Clemson. He has interviewed members of the Littlejohn family, former patrons of the club, and others during the process.

He explained that many well-known stars got their start as part of the Chitin Circuit, a network of safe places for performers to stay and perform as they worked their way from the south, up the East Coast to New York and the Apollo Theater. During the 1950's and 60's, Littlejohn's Grill offered cooked meals, a dance floor and lodging for singers, musicians and comedians as they made their way up and down the coast.

Jackson has documented stories from local residents about such greats as Muddy Waters, Fats Domino, and many other blues, jazz and early rock and roll musicians and singers. Comedians like Redd Foxx and Mom's Mabley performed between the bands.

The author said his book was a work in progress as the current publication has led to more stories that Jackson hopes to include in a future edition. To contact him with information on Littlejohn's Grill or to inquire about his book, send email to: paintingclemson@mindspring.com.

Nick Hopkins of Anderson and Gus Gustafson of Clemson get autographed copies of The Littlejohn's Grill Story: Blues, Jazz and Rock and Roll in Clemson, SC from author Vince Jackson during the January meeting of the Old Pendleton District Genealogical Society.
