About Our Chapter

The Old Pendleton District Chapter of the South Carolina Genealogical Society is a nonprofit, 12-36-2120(40), educational organization designed to unite those interested in the Pickens and Oconee Counties, South Carolina history and family genealogy; to encourage the preservation of documents and records; to promote educational programs; and to publish local records, history and family genealogy. The Chapter's primary goal is to assist others in their search for their ancestors and origins of birthplace.

The Chapter meets every month, except July, August and December. Meetings are held on the third Tuesday of the month from 7 to 9 p.m. at the Central-Clemson Library.

The Chapter's genealogical and historical archives are housed at the Clayton Family History Center, located in the lower level of the Rickman Library on Southern Wesleyan University campus in Central, SC. This collection contains about 3,500 books and files on family histories, state and county sources, military histories, cemetery records, immigration and passenger lists. For more information send email to claytonroom@swu.edu.

The public is welcome to visit the Clayton Center whenever the Library is open. Normal operating hours are 7:45 a.m. to 11 p.m., Monday through Thursday, 7:45 to 5 p.m. on Friday, 1 to 5 p.m. on Saturday and 6 to 10 p.m. Sunday. Hours vary during summer, for holidays and during breaks in the school year. For more information call 864-644-5074, send email to toclaytonroom@swu.edu, or check their website at swu.edu/academics/library.

FUNERARY ART

(Part 1)

Vanessa Cole

Have you ever wandered through an old cemetery and wondered what the carvings or sculptures on the gravestones symbolize? Many of them are very elaborate and are truly works of art. Often known as funerary art, this memorial art was very popular during the Victorian era.

The next time you go wandering in an old cemetery, take a look at the art that is all around you...art that tells a story.

Each month I'll share some of funerary art that you may find in an old cemetery. These pictures were taken as I traipsed through Springwood Cemetery in downtown Greenville.

AN ANCHOR

An anchor often serves as a symbol for a seaman/sailor. However, in ancient times, the anchor was regarded as a symbol of safety and was later used by Christians as a symbol of hope, steadfastness and the anchoring influence of Christ. An anchor with a broken chain symbolizes the cessation of life.

A BOOK

A book on a gravestone may be for a scholar or someone who worked as an author, publisher or bookseller. A book may also symbolize the book of life (of the deceased) or the Bible.

Remembering our Soldiers During November and December

Memorial Day – November 11, 2020

STOWERS FIRST BLACK MEDAL OF HONOR RECEIPIENT

Freddie Stowers was only 21 years of age when he fell in battle during the Great Offensive of 1918 in the Champagne-Marne section in France. He was a Sandy Spring, South Carolina native and a member of Co. 2, 371st Infantry Regiment during World War I and died six weeks before the war ended. His commanding officer recommended him for the national's highest honor, but the recommendation languished for 70 years. Stowers' valor was belatedly recognized in 1991 when President George H.W. Bush presented his surviving sisters with the Medal of Honor. A statue was erected of him and located at the Anderson County Library, Anderson, SC.

Distinguished Service Cross

James E. Dacus, a resident of Norris, SC was in the Ft. Ruger mess hall on Diamond Head at 7:55 a.m. on December 7, 1941. The 23 year old Liberty native had just finished his breakfast when the announcement came over the loud speaker. Pearl Harbor was under attacked by the Japanese. He immediately reported to his battle station, manning a machine gun and staying at his position for the next four hours, firing steadily at the enemy as wave after wave of Japanese planes flew over the island bombing the fleet of ships anchored in the harbor and riddling planes, runways, buildings and people with found after round of fire.

Confederate Soldier

William E. Woodson

“We lost our ship, but those fellows weren’t licked—they fought her until she sank,” said Lieutenant William E. Woodson, USNR, of Central, S.C., commanding officer of the Charleston navy yard built LSM-195, which was sunk early this month in the vicinity of Okinawa.”

Citing one incident of the engagement, Skipper Woodson proudly told of an enlisted man, member of a gun crew, who despite horrible burns stuck to his weapon and kept firing at Jap planes until he fell unconscious. This man—Fireman First Class James Talley, Jr.,--later died, and is being recommended posthumously for a navy decoration” for heroism.

About two-third of the ship’s officers and men survived the sinking without injury and were rescued by other vessels in the vicinity after being in the water for almost three hours.” (Article in unknown newspaper)

Mr. “Woody” Woodson later lived in Liberty with his wife Julia Woodson and taught at Liberty High School and later as principal of Liberty Elementary School.

New Book on Traveling in Upcountry

Andre Michaux in North America Journals & Letters, 1785-1797. (Translated from the French, Edit, and Annotated by Charlie Williams, Eliane M. Norman & Walter Kingsley Taylor.

André Michaux was appointed by Louis XVI as Royal botanist and sent to the United States in 1785 with an annual salary of 2000 livres, to make the first organized investigation of plants that could be of value in French building and carpentry, medicine and agriculture. He traveled with his son François André Michaux (1770–1855) through Canada and the United States. Michaux established and maintained for a decade a botanical garden of 111 acres near what is now Aviation Avenue in North Charleston, South Carolina, from which he made many expeditions to various parts of North America. Between 1785 and 1791 he shipped ninety cases of plants and many seeds to France. At the same time he introduced many species to America from various parts of the world, including Camellia, tea-olive, and crepe myrtle. Source: Wikipedia

RootsTech Goes Virtual in 2021

Online event expected to attract global audience

FamilySearch has announced that RootsTech 2021 will be held in February as a free, virtual event.

Due to the COVID-19 pandemic, the annual family history conference originally scheduled for February 3–6, 2021, in Salt Lake City, Utah, will now be held online February 25–27, 2021.

“The pandemic is giving us the opportunity to bring RootsTech to a broader audience worldwide,” said Steve Rockwood, FamilySearch International CEO. “A virtual event also allows us to expand our planning to truly make this a global celebration of family and connection.”

RootsTech, hosted by FamilySearch, has become the largest event of its kind in the world, attracting tens of thousands of participants every year.

RootsTech Connect 2021 will feature a variety of keynote speakers, dozens of classes in multiple languages and a virtual marketplace.

Throughout the three-day online event, attendees will have the ability to interact with presenters, exhibitors and other attendees through live chat and Q&A sessions.

“Classes will be taught in many languages, and presenters will teach from a number of international locations,” said Rockwood. “We will celebrate cultures and traditions from around the world, with activities that the audience can participate in from home — such as homeland cooking demonstrations, storytelling and music performances. This is one virtual event you won’t want to miss.”

RootsTech Connect 2021 will offer a combination of both livestream and on-demand content to accommodate differences in time zones for participants. In addition, sessions will be available to view on-demand after the event concludes.

RootsTech organizers hope participants can gather in-person again in the future, but they anticipate that the RootsTech Connect virtual opportunity will become a regular addition to the conference.

Visit rootstech.org to register for the free virtual event.
