2 April 1869, p. 2, col. 1. The town of Pickens is located on a ridge running east and west. The eastern extremity spreads out like a fan, affording beautiful sites for building. The town is now in the swaddling clothes of infancy, but the number of houses, which have been erected in the short space of six months, bespeak for it a future of growth and prosperity.

Already it boasts of two flourishing Stores, two temples to Bacchus, and two houses for the entertaining of the inner man, besides a number of private dwelling houses.

The citizens of the surrounding country are generally good liver (sic), experienced farmers, and out of debt.

There are, in its vicinity, several mills and a wool factory in full operation, and water-power without limit for manufacturing purposes.

The public buildings are nearly completed, and the officers are now occupying their rooms in the Court House. The Court House is built of brick and the Court room arranged as nearly as possible after the style of the Court room of old Pickens District, though of smaller dimensions.

We were treated with the utmost kindness by the citizens of the town and vicinity, and though our business in Court prevented our accepting the many hospitable invitations to visit them, we are nevertheless under obligations. We wish for . . . [bottom not copied by microfilm].

McKinney Chapel and Georgia S. Chapman Sunset, South Carolina

Georgia Chapman, age 79, passed away on Tuesday, September 22, 2020 in the loving company of her family.

Mrs. Chapman was married to late Gene Chapman for 51 years. In the early '80s, Georgia and Gene felt they needed to repair and save the Historic McKinney Chapel, which was on the verge of falling apart. Using their own resources, and the help and money of many volunteers throughout the years, the chapel had been restored and the cemetery has been maintained. This beautiful chapel is now a living part of many peoples' lives.

Georgia also dedicated her time and energy to the annual Christmas program. She hosted 37 pageants and as she has said, "the kids are grown with kids, and grandchildren, and great-grandchildren." These pageants created happy memories for many.

Survivors include two daughters, Gail Edwards (Bill) of Sunset, and Gena Gibson (Scott) of Powdersville; one daughter-in-law, Doris Chapman; one sister, June Rozar (Rick) of Quitman, Mississippi; nine grandchildren, Billy Edwards (Ashley), Matt Edwards (April), Brad Edwards, Travis Edwards (Brooke), Amanda Thompson (Jonathan), Zachary Gibson (Jessica), Justin Gibson, Wesley Chapman, and Bailey Chapman; 13 great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Chapman was predeceased by her husband, Gene Chapman, parents, Inez Crowe Smith and William Mack Smith; son, John Chapman; great-granddaughter, Melissa Anne Thompson; two sisters, Jackie Green, and Maxine Frick; one brother, Liston Smith.

The “Central Focus” collection of photographs showcases the picturesque town of Central, South Carolina. They are studies of light and shadow, solids and voids, rhythms and rhymes, the echoes of history and the rumble of today. Central, South Carolina was officially established in 1875, two years after the Atlanta and Charlotte Air Line Railway designated a division point there. Originally named “Center,” the town was set at the halfway point between the namesake cities. The town grew up around and supported the railroad with business offices, a hotel and dining hall, and maintenance facilities. The growth was short-lived, however, as the Atlanta and Charlotte Air Line was absorbed into the Southern Railway in 1894. The Southern closed the maintenance shops and moved the division point to Greenville, South Carolina. Today, the Norfolk Southern Railway continues to rattle the windows of this small town as its predecessors’ trains have for over a century. The original exhibition consisted of thirty-two framed photographs and was on display at the Main Street Deli and Coffeehouse, downtown Central, from April 24, 2014 through September 25, 2014. In December 2014 the entire exhibition was donated to the Pickens County Library for display at the Clemson-Central Branch. This book contains images from the exhibition, expanded to include others for which limited wall space did not allow at the time. Author: Robert M. Seel

RootsTech Goes Virtual in 2021

Online event expected to attract global audience

FamilySearch has announced that RootsTech 2021 will be held in February as a free, virtual event.

Due to the COVID-19 pandemic, the annual family history conference originally scheduled for February 3–6, 2021, in Salt Lake City, Utah, will now be held online February 25–27, 2021.

“The pandemic is giving us the opportunity to bring RootsTech to a broader audience worldwide,” said Steve Rockwood, FamilySearch International CEO. “A virtual event also allows us to expand our planning to truly make this a global celebration of family and connection.”

RootsTech, hosted by FamilySearch, has become the largest event of its kind in the world, attracting tens of thousands of participants every year.

RootsTech Connect 2021 will feature a variety of keynote speakers, dozens of classes in multiple languages and a virtual marketplace.

Throughout the three-day online event, attendees will have the ability to interact with presenters, exhibitors and other attendees through live chat and Q&A sessions.

“Classes will be taught in many languages, and presenters will teach from a number of international locations,” said Rockwood. “We will celebrate cultures and traditions from around the world, with activities that the audience can participate in from home — such as homeland cooking demonstrations, storytelling and music performances. This is one virtual event you won’t want to miss.”

RootsTech Connect 2021 will offer a combination of both livestream and on-demand content to accommodate differences in time zones for participants. In addition, sessions will be available to view on-demand after the event concludes.

RootsTech organizers hope participants can gather in-person again in the future, but they anticipate that the RootsTech Connect virtual opportunity will become a regular addition to the conference.

Visit rootstech.org to register for the free virtual event.
