About Our Chapter

The Old Pendleton District Chapter of the South Carolina Genealogical Society is a nonprofit, 12-36-2120(40), educational organization designed to unite those interested in the Pickens and Oconee Counties, South Carolina history and family genealogy; to encourage the preservation of documents and records; to promote educational programs; and to publish local records, history and family genealogy. The Chapter's primary goal is to assist others in their search for their ancestors and origins of birthplace.

The Chapter meets every month, except July, August and December. Meetings are held on the third Tuesday of the month from 7 to 9 p.m. at the Central-Clemson Library.

The Chapter's genealogical and historical archives are housed at the Clayton Family History Center, located in the lower level of the Rickman Library on Southern Wesleyan University campus in Central, SC. This collection contains about 3,500 books and files on family histories, state and county sources, military histories, cemetery records, immigration and passenger lists. For more information send email to claytonroom@swu.edu.

The public is welcome to visit the Clayton Center whenever the Library is open. Normal operating hours are 7:45 a.m. to 11 p.m., Monday through Thursday, 7:45 to 5 p.m. on Friday, 1 to 5 p.m. on Saturday and 6 to 10 p.m. Sunday. Hours vary during summer, for holidays and during breaks in the school year. For more information call 864-644-5074, send email toclaytonroom@swu.edu, or check their website at swu.edu/academics/ library.

Burdine Lodge Restoration Project Progress Report

Restoration and reconstruction of the historic "Burdine Lodge" at the Hagood Mill Historic Site near Pickens, South Carolina continues to move forward as evidenced by the accompanying photograph.

The Hagood Mill Historic Site Foundation which now has responsibility for the project in association with the Pickens County Historical Society contracted with Mr. Les McCall and Mr. Nicholas Gambrell of Westminister, South Carolina, two experienced log house builders, to complete the reconstruction of the Burdine Lodge. The photograph above reminds one that the building had already sustained considerable damage and deterioration by the time it was donated and disassembled at its previous location.

Mr. McCall and Mr. Gambrell located a source of suitable historic logs as replacements for the non-usable or damaged originals. Recently it was realized that a sufficient number of stones had not survived from the original structure for the restoration of the chimney, fireplace, and hearth. Mr. Wayne Kelley, who has led the project on behalf of the Pickens County Historical Society since it began, along with members of his family were gracious in agreeing to contribute chimney stones from an abandoned Winchester Family homesite in Pickens County. The Winchesters came to the area as land grant settlers during its period as Indian Territory. The result of their generosity is a collection of aged stones for the restoration project.

The expected cost of the project has been estimated at $50,000.00. As a result of the gifts which you have contributed to the South Carolina Conference Historical Society for this project, the Historical Society has become a major financial contributor towards the estimated cost of the project. As of December 31, 2020, there have been three hundred and fifteen gifts to the Historical Society designated for the project. Your gifts totaled $29,019.49 at year end. The support from the Conference Historical Society is being channeled through the Pickens County Historical Society, a 501(c)(3) organization. Transfers are being made in installments as the work is completed.

Your support of this project has had a significant impact clearly evident in the progress which has been made.

Roger M. Gramling Secretary-Treasurer South Carolina Conference Historical Society

Francis Asbury Visits Upcountry

November, 1800. We had no-small labour in getting down Saluda mountain. Arriving at father Douthet's on the south branch of Saluda, where finding myself quite at home. I had leisure to reflect upon our western visitation. On the 16th of September we set out from Bottetourt in Virginia, and on the 14th of November we were in North Carolina, at the foot of the grand mountain division of South Carolina. In this time, I presume we have travelled one thousand miles, have had about twenty appointments, not many of which were large; having lodged about twenty nights under strange roofs, or at houses of entertainment; and have expended about fifty dollars.

Monday, November 17, 1800. Yesterday we rested at father John Douthet's; he is settled in a cove in the midst of the mountains, upon the south branch of the Saluda. The computation is, that from Charleston to the western line of this State it is two hundred and seventy-five miles; but from the centre-house it is nearer four hundred miles.

Tuesday, November 18, 1800. We came fifteen miles to Samuel Burdine's Pendleton County. Here were many wandering people. Brother Whatcoat preached. Our sister Burdine professeth to have known the Lord twenty years; in her you see meekness, gentleness, patience, and pure love—and cleanliness.

Wednesday, November 19, 1800. We came to John Wilson's; ... Today Benjamin Blanton met me: he is now a married man; like others of this Southern brethren, after he has faithfully served the connexion (sic) about ten years, he talks of locating.

Thursday, November 20, 1800. At the Grove. We were lost an hour in the woods at setting out, and terribly bewildered in our way to the meeting house; the day was cold, and a beautiful snow lay on the ground. Through twelve miles of cold and snow we journeyed to Thomas Terry's. Our host was from Gisborough, in Yorkshire; he made us welcome, and gave us dinner about six o'clock. Here I hauled upon the chaise—the pleasure of riding in it does not compensate for the trouble and difficulty of getting it along. As there were few appointments in this State, and as brother Benjamin Blanton agreed to fill them. I thought fit to accompany brother Whatcoat who was under the necessity of going to fill appointments made for him in Georgia.

We have travelled about forty miles since we left father Douthet's near Table mountain, which on a clear day is a grand sight; the stool appears like a great house of freestone; today we only saw it though a mist dimly. At the Cover there are but few religious people, and among these few there were disorderly walkers. The Northern rivers, I presume, began to close for the winter, which, I judge, will be a severe one. On Friday, I rested and wrote.

October 11, 1801. Wednesday. We went forward to William Norton's at the Iron Run; a distance of twelve miles, through swampy ground. Brother Whatcoat preached, and ordained Brother Sellers a deacon. It was disagreeable time, The people were trembling with cold.

October 16, 1801. Friday. We reached Samuel Burdine's, sixteen miles. Nicholas Snethen spoke. I followed.

October 18, 1801. Sabbath. Yesterday and today we attended quarterly meeting at Salem, [Greenville County] near Staunton's ferry, upon Saluda River....

October 24, 1801. Saturday We have been working this week from Saluda to Reedy River, down the Enoree, crossing and recrossing through Pendleton, Greenville, Laurens, Spartanburg, and Newbury counties in South Carolina. I cannot record great things upon religion in this quarter but cotton sells high.

November 10-15, 1802. The descent of Saluda exceeds all I know, from the Province of Maine to Kentucky and Cumerland: I had dreaded it, fearing I should not be able to walk or ride such steeps; nevertheless, with time, patience, labour, two sticks, and above all, a good Providence. I came in about five o'clock to ancient father John Douthet's, Greenville County, South Carolina. Here I found myself at home, amongst kind and attentive friends. On the SABBATH DAY I preached at my lodgins. Surely the people around here are not the worst in the settlement; and they will mend, and attend the ministration of the world better in the future. I have heard of successful meetings which have been held by encampments upon the Catawba, at Morgantown, Swannion, Pendleton, Greenville—in North and South Carolina: more circumstantial accounts I have not yet been able to obtain. Mr. Newton, a Presbyterian minister in Buncombe county appears to be greatly engaged in the spirit of the work. Since my being in this house for five or six day past, I have been afflicted with painful flatulency's. Sit still I could not; to read and write I was unable; but I would wind, reel, and pluck out cotton, and thus employed my fingers. I have not nearly completed the six thousand miles since the last of July of the last year—great and fiery trials; great succeeding consolations. I would here record that James Lowry, an agreeable, pious youth rode with me for the last seventy miles. I feel truly grateful to him and to his family: may the same measure of kindness be always meted to him and his, and to all such affectionate young men, and feeling, attentive people!

Tuesday, November 16, 1802. After resting a day, I lectured in the family, upon Luke XI, 13, and on WEDNESDAY left this affectionate household, directing my course to Solomon James's in the neighbourhood of George's Creek, Pendleton county. I preached the funeral sermon of Polly James, the daughter of my host. Here I met with Major James Tarrant, a local preacher, riding the circuit. We went on to Samuel Burdine's and lodged. I had vainly questioned in my mind the probable cause of the name of Ninety-Six – it was this, it seems: During an Indian war, in which there was an expedition against the Keowee towns, it was found by measurement that it was ninety-six miles from that spot to Twelve Mile Creek.

November 18, 1802. Thursday. I rested and wrote.

November 19, 1802. Friday. I preached at Samuel Burdine's.

November 20, 1802. Saturday. I gave a sermon at John Wilson's.

1803

October 30, 1803. SABBATH. I walked down the mountain (Table Rock Mountains), after riding sixteen or eighteen miles before breakfast, and came in about twelve o'clock to father John Douthet's; once more I have escaped from filth, fleas, rattlesnakes, hills, mountains, rocks, and rivers: farewell western world for a while! We are twelve hundred and seventy miles from Philadelphia.

Monday, October 31, 1803. I rode to Chastain's, twenty miles, crossing three branches of the Saluda.

November 1, 1803. Tuesday. At the meeting house, I spoke on 2 Peter v, 6-9; after meeting we rode away fifteen miles to Wood's; and the next day preached at this house, to a lifeless congregation, and came off without dining to John Foster's, twelve miles . . .

October, 1813. Our ride of ninety miles to Staunton bridge on Saluda river was severely felt, and the necessity of lodging at taverns made it no better.

October 29, 1813. Friday. On the peaceful banks of the Saluda I write my valedictory address to the presiding elders. At Staunton bridge we rest five days; my horse and his master both disabled. I preached but twice. My leisure has permitted to read Sellon . . . James, the son of John Douthat was born in Maryland; left his native place and settled on the Yadkin; became of member of the Methodist society, and was honoured as a class leader, making his house, a house of God for the assemblies of his brethren. An infamous woman had found her way into the society, and seduced Douthat away and he departed from his brethren and from God. Some years after this, the family moved to Table Mountain, Pendleton district: the preachers came to the house, the father was reclaimed, and his two sons James and Samuel, joined the Methodists and were useful, and respectable travelling preachers; the former laboring twelve, the latter seven years in the ministry. But the elder Douthat had a failing—he was fond of liquor, and indulged himself, and backslide a second time; retaining, nevertheless, his character for strict integrity and his habit of private prayer, occasionally hearing the Gospel. Last summer he fell ill, and came to lie down and die at his son James, here he became a true penitent, was blest with justifying and sanctifying grace, and slept in peace in the seventy-third year of his age. [Note: Douthit was apparently living on the Saluda before 1792. The Rev. James Jenkins noted in his account of his years on the Methodist Circuit in upper South Carolina during the 1790s that he met with "Brethen James Douthet, afflicted with rheumatism from the crown of his head to the soles of his feet." Jenkins stated that Douthet recovered from this condition and "joined the conference to go to Ninevah, or anywhere he might be sent." This is undoubtedly the same James Douthit who labored twelve years in the ministry.]

November 2, 1813. Tuesday. We visited Talliaferro's and went forward to B. Lyon's.

November 4, 1813. Thursday. Called a meeting at Edward M'Caw's. He saw Henry Gaines, a disciple since 1777; now feeble, but wishing to be faithful unto death. Came forward to Conner's. Abbeville District.

Attached is the family photo I believe was taken by a prominent photographer from Easley, SC. The photographer was embossed on the photo as N D Taylor of Easley, SC. The South Caroliniana Library has articles that indicate Mr. Taylor was prominent as early as 1902.

My SC family is generally from Fairfield and Chester Counties and the surnames are Withers and Neil. The photo is scanned at 600 dpi and easily enlargeable. Severable in the photo seem to be wearing a school pin and my guess is from around the late 1800's. This date would tie in with my great aunts Sarah and Francis Withers but I was not aware of them attending school in the Easley area.

World War II War Registration Forms on Family Search and other sites.

My father was a West Virginia coal miner working in a variety of the mines in Fayette County. (The family lived in Coal Camps, (similar to Textile Mill Villages, except they were called Camps). Gwen was named after her father's nurse in Oak Hill Hospital after a piece of "slate" had broken her father's back.

For many years after my father died, my sister and I wondered why my father was not in World War II. We had heard the family story that one end of his finger had been cut off in a coal mine accident.

After researching genealogy sources for "hundreds" of years, Gwen "Anne" needed proof. FOUND IT!

NATIONAL GENEALOGICAL SOCIETY 2021 FAMILY HISTORY CONFERENCE Partition NGS LIVE! & On-Demand Lectures* Partition **

Learn new strategies, resources, records, and techniques to sharpen your family history skills at the National Genealogical Society (NGS) Family History Conference in 2021. Plans for NGS's forty-third annual conference* include a full week of virtual events for individuals, societies, and organizations from 17-21 May 2021. NGS will feature days of great speakers, novel topics, live chat, Q&A time, a virtual expo hall, the NGS Awards announcements, drawings for genealogy-related prizes and more!

The week starts off on Monday, 17 May with the Delegate Council Kickoff Workshop for NGS member organization delegates. Tuesday, 18 May is the SLAM! Idea Showcase for society leaders, librarians, archivists, and museum staff who serve genealogists.

The main event, NGS 2021 Live!, is Wednesday and Thursday, 19–20 May. This two-day virtual conference allows attendees to benefit from presentations by nationally recognized speakers, including Elizabeth Shown Mills, Thomas W. Jones, Barbara Vines Little, Judy Russell, Eric Grundset, Craig Scott, Janice Lovelace, and more. Don't miss our live-interaction with speakers, be the first to hear about the NGS Award winners, find out about the latest genealogy-related products and services from our expo hall exhibitors, and perhaps even be one of our prize winners! Program content will include bonus lectures provided by sponsoring organizations. Download a PDF of the NGS 2021 Family History Conference program for a full list of sessions and continue to check our website for more details as we get closer to the events.

The week ends with Focus on Societies on Friday, 21 May. This all-day event is devoted to virtual presentations by experts on topics that can help advise how to manage and grow your genealogical or historical society.

In June, NGS will offer more opportunities for family historians to learn from subject matter experts with NGS 2021 On-Demand, a lecture series that you will be able to stream by choosing up to an additional 85+ sessions directly to your computer.

Take advantage of the discounted Early Bird registration fee plus member discounts when you register by 15 March 2021.

*Status of Richmond 2021 Conference

Due to ongoing mandates in Virginia in regards to COVID-19 and our concern for the well-being of our attendees, exhibitors, volunteers, and staff, NGS is unable to host an in-person conference in Richmond, Virginia, in May 2021.
